Maryland Governor Leads Old-Time Torch Light Parade

COERCION DENOUNCED Reference to Farm Aid Brings Big Applause

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Indiana Democrats resumed their campaign today fresh from participation in an old-fashioned political rally which culminated last night in an address by Governor Albert C. Ritchie. The only hope in Ritchie of Maryland in which he America is in putting in a Democratic administration which can succeed.

Thousands of Democrats from throughout the state joined in a rally here, which was enlivened by an old-fashioned red fire torchlight parade that recalled campaigns of years ago. Then they filled to capacity Cadle Tabernacle, with its 15,000 seats.

After a wild ten minute ovation, the Marylander launched an attack upon the Republican administration for what he termed "mismanagement" and asserted the only hope in America is in "putting in a Democratic administration which can succeed."

The Governor said he had come to Indiana as the campaign neared its close to dispel the efforts he said were being made by "Republican orators, from President Hoover down to convince the American people that the country will not be safe in Democratic hands."

"Since when," the Governor asked, "has it been dangerous to change a national administration which has shown itself incapable? The danger lies in continuing such an administration, not in changing it."

Democratic success instead of imperiling the country will save the country."

The Governor departed from his prepared address a few points and omitted much of it because of time limitations for radio broadcasting.

At one point he attacked Henry Ford, the manufacturer, for what he said was "blackjacking employees into voting for Herbert Hoover."

Again in attacking President Hoover and Republican orators for what he termed "belittling the candidate of the Democratic party for president of the United States,"

WEALTHY MAN'S WILL REMEMBERS WORKERS

Toledo, O., Oct. 29.—(AP)—The will of Albert S. Close, oil man and yachtman, filed here today bequeaths an estate of about $600,000 to 1,200 employees of his company, about twenty-five relatives and several institutions.

Mr. Close, who died last week, was vice president and treasurer of the Hickok Oil Corporation and president of the Breckinridge Gasoline Company.

Employees will receive from $300 to $500 each, according to length of service.

A trust of $25,000 is created to provide annually for 15 years for distribution of $1 to $5 each to worthy poor selected by the Salvation Army of Toledo. Each year $1,000 is to be expended thus, the will provides. After the 15 year period, the trust is to be turned over to the Salvation Army for its use.

A number of church and benevolent institutions also received bequests. Among these are $10,000 to Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio, and $5,000 to the Oesterlin Orphans Home, Springfield, Ohio.

Among the bequests to persons are two of $5,000 each to Grace Renee Close, and Nora P. Close, former wives of the oil man.

Five Wounded In Feud Outbreak In Kentucky; Three Are Bystanders

Rifle and Pistol Battle Staged Across Pineville Street by Four Men from Back in Mountains

Pineville, Ky., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Five persons were wounded and several hundred endangered as two mountain families tried to settle their differences with rifles and pistols in front of the court house here today.

Fifteen to twenty shots were fired before deputy sheriffs and Chief of Police Paul Osborne succeeded in breaking it up by arresting two of the men, and passersby fled into stores, behind automobiles and one or two lay flat on the pavement. Three of the wounded were bystanders.

Stephen Lee, 58, and his son, George, 17, were said by officers to have been on one side with Elijah McGee, 40, and Martin McGee, 21, brothers, on the other. The men fired at each other across a 30-foot street. Elijah McGee was out on bond charged with having killed Jim Lee, son of Stephen Lee, four months ago in a quarrel over McGee's wife.

The wounded were Stephen Lee, George Lee, believed to be in precarious condition; and three bystanders, Cogar M. Brooks, 33, Ed Browning, 43, and Charles Simpson. The Lee and McGee families who live in the mountains about

NEW ENGLAND ALL RIGHT NOW SAYS AL SMITH

Democratic Candidate Is Given Assurances as He Leaves for Invasion G. O. P. Stronghold

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Governor Roosevelt faced into the New England states today with the assurance of Alfred E. Smith, with whom he spent a friendly hour last night, that "everything's all right over there now."

Leaving Albany about noon, the Governor was on the last long swing of his tour as the Democratic presidential candidate.

Monday afternoon, when he is scheduled to be in Portland, he will have campaigned literally "from Maine to California."

The meeting with Mr. Smith occurred last night when the 1928 Democratic standard bearer came to Albany on his way from Boston, where he made a speech in behalf of the Roosevelt-Garner ticket Thursday night, to Buffalo, where he speaks tonight.

Sitting beside Gov. Roosevelt on a davenport at the executive mansion, the "happy warrior" gave his optimistic report on his trip to Boston, the same city in which Mr. Roosevelt will speak Monday night.

Smith grinned when newspapermen asked him if the meeting had been harmonious.

"If we had been Frenchmen we would have kissed each other," he said. "Being a couple of Americans we just shook hands."

It was the first time in more than six months that the New York Governor had sat down for a talk with his predecessor in office and the man who opposed him at the Chicago National Convention.

After their talk the two men held a joint press conference.

"I explained in great detail to the Governor my trip through the New England states," Smith said.

Smith said he had come at the invitation of Governor Roosevelt to report "what I found out in New England."

He said that besides the states he visited, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, he also believed New Hampshire would go Democratic.

Mr. Roosevelt said from what Smith had told him "everything seems to be in great shape."

David S. Ingalls, Republican candidate for governor, stood pledged today to seek the resignations of members of the state's board of pardons and paroles should he be elected to office November 8.

The candidate spoke at Cincinnati last night, making the last of three of a series of six speeches in the southern Ohio city.

"I expect," he declared, "to demand the resignations of the Ohio clemency board immediately after I am inducted into the office of Governor of Ohio."

"We are going to quit this policy of permitting murderers to prey upon society. We are going to keep Ohio safe for you and your families by keeping seasoned criminals in the Ohio Penitentiary where they belong."

Ohio Democrats went beyond the bounds of the state in their campaigning last night, with a speech by former Governor James M. Cox, at Charleston, W. Va., in which the Republican party was accused of showing "bad faith" to the American people on the subject of the tariff.

Senator Robert J. Bulkley addressed a rally at Ashtabula, and State Finance Director Howard L. Bevis spoke at Columbus.

Cox asserted the Republican party, while "proclaiming tariff schedules for the protection of American industry," had "deliberately conferred privilege upon their campaign benefactors. In short they have given legal license to pick the American purse."

President Taft recommended a downward revision on the tariff in 1908, Cox said, but finally yielded to an increase through "the persuasion and power of Aldrich, Cannon and Payne."

OPPOSITION TO UTILITIES ORGANIZED

Co-operative Movement for "Just Rates" Begun by Ohio Cities

PROBES ARE PLANNED State Supervision Is Hit as Changes Proposed

Columbus, O., Oct. 29.—(AP)—A co-operative movement to bring about solution of utility rate problems in Ohio was under way today. Representatives of fifty municipalities, meeting here yesterday, formed the Ohio Association for Public Utilities questions with the announced purpose of seeking "just rates," investigating utilities corporations, and obtaining legislation dealing with the problems.

The Association will establish a bureau of information in Columbus for the benefit of all interested communities.

Officers of the new body are John M. Lewis, Columbus, president; city solicitor, Fred Gribel, of Deshler, vice president, and city manager, R. P. Price, of Hamilton, secretary-treasurer. They will serve one-year terms.

Members of the executive committee are Julian A. Pollak, Cincinnati councilman, three year term; City Manager L. G. Whitney, of Piqua, two years, and M. G. Irvin, superintendent of utilities for Newark, one year.

During a round-table discussion which preceded formation of the association, Fred W. Warner of Marion and Mayor F. E. Thompson, of Maumee, recommended abolition of the State Utilities Commission, while Lewis, president of the Columbus City Council, favored election of the commission members for short terms on a non-partisan ballot. At present the commissioners are named by the governor.

Other speakers favored municipal ownership of utilities. Price submitting a report listing his city as saving money under such a plan. The profit to Hamilton taxpayers, he said, amounted to $3,487,733 during a four-year period.

A personal property tax on gas wells was advocated by City Solicitor Wesley Grills of Lorain. He urged municipal surveys of gas wells in production in Ohio to determine the amount of gas produced and consumed in the state.

City Manager C. A. Dykstra, of Cincinnati, chairman of the meeting, said a 20 per cent reduction in the tax duplicate would follow a 5 per cent utility rate cut.

Mayor Jacob S. Coxey, of Massillon, an advocate of city ownership of utilities, took occasion to outline his plan for issuing non-interest bearing bonds for financing such projects.

CAR LOADINGS SLUMP

Washington, —(AP)—The American Railway Association, a private organization maintained by the carriers, today announced the car loadings of revenue freight for the week ending October 22 totaled 642,173 cars, a decrease of 8,405 under the preceding week.

The loadings were 127,500 cars under the same week in 1931 and 317,319 under the same week two years ago.

ABANDON WEAK SCHOOLS OF OHIO, IS SUGGESTION

Cleveland, O., Oct. 29.—(AP)—A recommendation that Ohioans residing in parts of the state where it is "always hard to make a living," should "move out," was made by Prof. H. L. Lutz of Princeton University, in an address last night before the Northeastern Ohio Teachers' Association in convention here.

"I heard this morning that there were 888 weak school districts in Ohio, mostly in the South," the professor said. "They are drawing on the strong for support. You will break the back of the strong doing that. It's like pouring money down a hole."

"You ought to do away with those districts, move the people out, consolidate them in other districts. That is easier said than done, but it ought to be done."

"Ohio has a lot of primitive land which might as well be put back in that condition."

Professor Lutz maintained that one of the reasons for financial difficulties in the schools was caused by wasteful duplication in other phases of the government. He particularly characterized the practice in some localities of having dozens of little villages so closely grouped "that the fire departments have to sock on their brakes hard

Fayette County Vote In Newspaper Polls Is Strongly Roosevelt

Indications, However, Are That White and Ingalls Will Have Nip and Tuck Race

On the basis of the Cincinnati Enquirer's straw vote, Fayette county will go substantially for Roosevelt but the race between David S. Ingalls and George White for the governor's chair will be so close the last vote cast may swing the victory either way.

In 1928 Fayette county voted 5251 for Hoover and 2752 for Smith.

In 1930 Fayette county voted 3570 for Davey (Democrat) and 4575 for Cooper (Republican.)

The conclusions of statisticians, on the basis of these figures, tend to minimize the Republican claims that "Hoover's getting stronger every day" but they do bear out the predictions that the White-Ingalls contest will be close.

These straw votes are being scanned with increasing interest as the November election draws near, and particular interest centers on the straw vote taken in this city and community, first of which appeared in the Cincinnati Enquirer Saturday morning.

The Enquirer vote, taken in this

HELL RAISIN'

TO BE DONE BY FARMERS IN THIS ELECTION SAYS SOCIALIST CANDIDATE

Boston, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president, who came here today to deliver a number of addresses in Boston and vicinity, told newspapermen the farmer was "more likely to raise hell" in the coming election than the city man.

Taking cognizance of the advice given by many political speakers that a vote for the Socialist ticket would be futile, Thomas said:

"The only persons who throw away their votes are those who vote for what they don't want and get it. Look at what they have voted for in the past. Take Wilson and peace. They got Wilson. They voted for Harding and normalcy. They got Harding."

"They voted to keep cool with Coolidge and they had the hottest session of gambling in history. Under Coolidge, the New England beacon, strip poker was a pious Sunday school game for children compared to the Wall street speculation."

"Then there was Hoover and prosperity. I have to draw the veil over that."

Discussing the farm situation, Thomas said: "The farmer is mad all through. In the wheat fields, pamphlets are being circulated telling best means of burning wheat for fuel while in the coal fields they are trying to find out some method of eating coal. The farmers are milking for sport."

Thomas arrived here accompanied by his wife and daughter, Frances, a freshman at Barnard College.

YOUTH KILLS SELF

Loveland, O., —(AP)—Charles G. Cox, 19, a student in Gashen high school, was found dead, shot through the head, by his parents Saturday. Returning from a Parent-Teachers' Association entertainment, he had killed himself with a small calibre revolver.

WEATHER OUTLOOK

Weather outlook for the week beginning Monday:

For the region of the Great Lakes: Occasional precipitation, temperatures near normal.

FOREIGN LOAN BLAME DENIED BY HOOVER IN INDIANAPOLIS SPEECH

SEN. JOHNSON MOUNTS STUMP FOR ROOSEVELT

Republican Independent Drops Party Loyalty to Hit Special Privilege

San Francisco, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Raising the standard of what he declared was a progressive revolt against "special privilege," Senator Hiram W. Johnson, Republican Independent, assailed the administration in an address here last night and urged the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat, as president.

Before an audience which filled Dreamland auditorium to its 17,000 capacity and overflowed into the streets, the senator recalled his first campaign for governor of California, in 1910, and expressed pleasure "old comrades in arms are here in such numbers."

"With the old enthusiasm and with high courage of old times," he said, "we dedicate ourselves anew to the progressiveism which was our political religion and xxx we stand with Franklin D. Roosevelt for president of the United States."

He declared "the angry cry of party irregularity," which he said meant "special privilege," could "neither frighten nor halt progressive Republicans in this memorable contest."

He condemned what he termed the "gospel of fear," which he said the administration now turned to in a political campaign as "hypocritical smugness."

Senator Johnson asserted Republican campaign workers in some cities were urging employers to demand support of their employees for President Hoover.

DISAPPOINTMENT!

OLD MAN RETURNS TO VISIT BOYHOOD CHUM BUT FINDS HIM DEAD

Ambridge, Pa., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Sixty years have passed since Saul Powell, 81, of Canton, O., left Ambridge—60 years since he had seen William Pierson, his chum, with whom he romped, swam and fished as a boy.

"He'll be surprised," chuckled the aged man as he returned to visit his friend, trudging three miles from the railroad station to the "old Pierson homestead."

A warm glow of friendship surged over him as he thought of the good times they had had together and he looked forward to the reunion with keen anticipation.

But Powell is silent today. He learned that "Bill" died 25 years ago.

HUSKING CHAMPION FROM PAULDING-CO.

Newark, O., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Lester Anthony of Paulding is Ohio's new corn husking champion.

Anthony won the title by husking 21 bushels in an hour and 20 minutes in the third annual contest at the Alva Oyer farm near here yesterday. Everett Ford of Deafence placed second by husking 20½ bushels in the same time. Alva Wise of Madison county husked 20 bushels to take third place. The winner and runner-up will represent Ohio in a national contest to be held November 10 in Illinois.

First place in the shock contest was won by Wilbur Brown of Madison county with 16 bushels, or 1,138 pounds of corn. George Reisinger of Ross county was second with 1,134 pounds and Lester Goodyear of Delaware third with 1,118.

Washington, —(AP)—A contract for $15,200 to the Ohio River Company of Cincinnati, Ohio, for work on Ohio river dams numbers 32 and 36, was awarded today by the War Department.

Roosevelt's Position on Election Issues Called "All Untenable"

ATTACK MORE DIRECT

Administration's Tariff Policies Defended

By NATHAN ROBERTSON.

Aboard Presidential Special, En route to Washington, Oct. 29.—(AP)—President Hoover's campaign trail led him eastward today from a fourth invasion of the mid-west in which he struck out more directly than ever before at Governor Roosevelt, characterizing the Democratic nominee's position on election issue as all equally untenable.

The President swung back thru Ohio and West Virginia from Indianapolis where he told a capacity audience in the 22,000 at Butler Field House last night that if he had time he could "drive his opponent 'from every solitary position he has taken in this campaign.'"

This statement, following an assertion that he had forced Governor Roosevelt to "shift" his position on the tariff, drew cries of "at-a-boy" from the cheering throng.

Half a dozen rear platform appearances faced the President today.

He was scheduled for stops at Clarksburg, Grafton, Piedmont, Keyser and Martinsburg, West Virginia and Oakland, Maryland.

Although before the President arrived at the Hoosier city there had been suggestions of a conflict between his reception and the Democratic celebration for Governor Ritchie, of Maryland, who also spoke there last night, nothing of the kind occurred.

The Ritchie celebration came after the reception for the President was all over and the closest the Chief Executive came to the Maryland Governor was when his parade passed the club where Ritchie was staying.

Mr. Hoover received a nine-minute ovation from a colorful crowd that jammed the huge indoor stadium at Butler university to the rafters and frequently interrupted as he directed most of his speech to Governor Roosevelt's campaign "positions."

Replying directly to Roosevelt's statement in Baltimore Tuesday night that "after March 4, 1929, the Republican party was in command,"

SWEAT BOX GUARD GETS PRISON TERM

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 29.—(AP)—George W. Courson, convicted of manslaughter for the sweat box death of Arthur Maillefert, New Jersey youth, in Sunbeam prison camp last June, today was denied a new trial and was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment.

Judge George C. Ribbs gave Courson the maximum sentence under the law.

Courson, former guard at the camp, was convicted after a two weeks' trial in which Solomon Higginbotham, a guard under Courson was exonerated of blame in the death of the Westfield, N. J., boy.

CLEVELAND POLICE FIND MYSTERY GIRL

Cleveland, O., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Efforts to learn the identity of a girl about 20, who has been lying in a comatose state at the police women's bureau since last Tuesday, failed today.

The girl gave the name as Mary Rainey and said her home was at Scranton, Pa. Then she said she was from Pittsburgh, then Akron. Police have been unable to trace her to any of these cities.

Refusing any nourishment except milk, she is steadily growing weaker. "Ask me tomorrow" is her answer to all questions.

CLAIMS OHIO STATE BANK HELD FUNDS

And Also Held Checks for Stock Sold in the Amount of $6,700

Charging that the Ohio State Bank received checks made out to her in the amount of $6,700 which they failed to turn over to her account and that the amount is still retained by the bank, Lucy Ginn has filed suit in common pleas court for judgment in the above amount which she asks be made a preferref claim against the institution, making Ira J. Fulton, as State Superintendent of Banks in charge of liquidation of the Ohio State Bank and the bank itself defendants in the suit. She is represented by Kneffer, White, Smith and Dempsey and W. S. Paxson.

Mrs. Ginn states that on the first day of September and for more than ten years prior she owned 67 par value $100 shares of preferred stock in The P. Hagerty Shoe Company, and evidenced by certificates which contained the provision that the company could, at its option, any dividend paying time after two years from date of issuance, redeem the stock at $100 per share.

That prior to Sept. 1, 1929 the plaintiff notified The P. Hagerty Shoe Company to send dividend checks on her preferred stock to her in care of the Ohio State Bank, and that the company had mailed the checks to the bank accordingly.

That she had a safety deposit box in the Ohio State Bank to which the executive authorities of the bank had a key, and that the bank, through C. P. Ballard, vice president, endorsed such checks with name of plaintiff and deposited same to her credit in the bank.

That on Sept. 2, 1929, The P. Hagerty Shoe Company passed a resolution to redeem 250 shares of preferred stock including 20 owned by plaintiff, and mailed notice of such order of redemption in care of the Ohio State Bank, which notice was received at the bank but which was never delivered to the plaintiff or placed in her deposit box, and she was not notified until after the bank was taken over for liquidation May 12, 1930. That The P. Hagerty Company deposited $25,000 with said bank to pay for stock redeemed, and that at the time the plaintiff's shares were in her deposit box to which bank officials had a key.

That a check for $2,000 was mailed to plaintiff in care of the bank, and that the bank retained the check and the funds deposited to meet the check, and still has same. That the bank paid out the remainder of funds to those to whom checks had been issued for the redeemed stock.

On Dec. 30, 1929, it is stated, the company passed a resolution to redeem 250 additional shares of stock, 47 of which belonged to plaintiff, and that the company sent a check for plaintiff to the Ohio State Bank for $4,700. That company placed $25,000 in bank to pay for redeemed stock, and all was paid out but amount to plaintiff, which plaintiff avers was retained by the bank, together with the check payable to her.

Plaintiff states that she sought to have the claim made a preferred one by reason of the $6,700 being impressed with a trust for plaintiff, and the request had been rejected.

Wherefore she asks judgment in the full amount as a preferred claim to the exclusion of regular creditors of the institution.

EXTORTION SCHEME USED AT JAMESTOWN

Thursday night Deputy Sheriffs Ramsey and Vincent made a hurried trip to the Shady Grove community upon summons from Xenia which stated that two men who had posed as federal officers were in that vicinity, and stating that the Sheriff from London was joining Sheriff Baughn and the deputies from Fayette in the extreme north-west corner of the county.

As soon as the officers from this city reached the scene, they were informed that the tip received by the Xenia Sheriff was wrong, and that there was nothing doing.

It was later learned that two strangers, posing as federal prohibition agents had accosted Ben Jones, at Jamestown, obtained a half pint of liquor then presented themselves before Jones telling him that unless he paid $100 "fine" he would be locked up and prosecuted in federal court. Jones, badly frightened when told that they would swear they obtained the liquor for him, produced $90, all he could raise, gave it to the men, and they departed.

The marshal obtained the number of a car he believed to be the one used by the two men, and it was this car number in the Shady Grove region that caused the sheriff's of three counties to be called. However the number proved to be the wrong one, and the men escaped.

60 women voted for Hoover and 156 men and 162 women voted for Roosevelt in the rural poll in the neighboring county.

The Enquirer's total vote for president, as announced Saturday morning, stands 13,335 for Hoover and 24,397 for Roosevelt; 17,694 for Ingalls and 18,580 for White; 13,938 for Bettman and 20,849 for Bulkley.

The total vote in Friday evening's Columbus Dispatch stood: For Hoover, 18,601; Roosevelt 37,568. For Ingalls 26,795; for White, 26,204. For Bettman 20,029, for Bulkley 29,976.

It is demonstrated by the total votes for the various candidates that first interest is for president, many persons declining to fill in the remainder of the ballots submitted in the poll.

Classifying the poll in this city the Enquirer gives it as follows: Fayette street, Hoover 19, Roosevelt 61, Ingalls 32 White 46.

East Market street, business section—Hoover 7, Roosevelt 24, Ingalls 18, White 12, Bettman 24, Bulkley 43.

Main street, business section Hoover 32, Roosevelt 59, Ingalls 44, White 41, Bettman 25, Bulkley 49.

West Court street, business section—Hoover 19, Roosevelt 51, Ingalls 30, White 39, Bettman 19, Bulkley 48.

Craig Brothers Company, Hoover 10; Roosevelt, 5; Ingalls 12, White 3; Bettman 10 Bulkley 3.

The Arlington Hotel lobby, Hoover 6, Roosevelt 10, Ingalls 5, White 11, Bettman 7, Bulkley 5.

Midland Grocery Company, Hoover 8, Roosevelt 6, Ingalls 9, White 5, Bettman 8, Bulkley 27.

Court street, Fayette to North, Hoover 15, Roosevelt 47, Ingalls 23, White 36, Bettman 17, Bulkley 38.

Courthouse, Hoover 19, Roosevelt 8, Ingalls 18, White 6, Bettman 16, Bulkley 8.

In the analysis of the vote polled here, it is noted in the Enquirer vote that 79 Republicans changed to Roosevelt, and 7 Democrats had changed to Hoover.

In the analysis of the vote for Governor it is shown that 20 Republicans voted for White and 46 Democrats voted for Ingalls.

For U. S. Senator the analysis shows 18 Republicans voting for Bulkley and 28 democrats for Bettman.

Saturday afternoon's Columbus dispatch carries the following poll in rural Fayette county, sent in by mail, men: Hoover 54, Roosevelt 207; Ingalls 75, White 174; Bettman 75, Bulkley 174.

Women—(rural vote) Hoover 51, Roosevelt 198; Ingalls 69, White 165; Bettman 61, Bulkley 174.

BIG BROOM SWEEPS COURT HOUSE LAWN

SENDING LEAVES SCURRYING ABOUT BUSINESS AREA

The Weather Man wielded his big brown broom of breezes Saturday, and swept the courthouse clean of leaves, sending them scurrying about the up-town district and even into places of business.

The leaves were swept from the trees as well as picked up where they had accumulated the past day or two, and sent eddying down the street, whirling about on first one side of the street, then on the other, piling into doorways, along for the most part kept on the move by the miniature whirlwinds that picked them up part of the time and carried them to the tops of the buildings, only to dash them back and send them scurrying in the street and upon the sidewalks once more.

The meeting was devoted entirely to business with all social features before and after eliminated. About twenty-five Odd Fellows were present.

HALLOWE'EN PRIZES MANY

Parade Open to Public Forms at 7:30

Committees have been active preparing for the big Hallowe'en celebration to be staged in this city Monday night, and now have all arrangements made to insure a jolly time during the evening.

The big parade, in which between 1,000 and 2,000 persons are expected to take part, is scheduled to form in front of the school grounds in North North street, west on Court to Hinde, thence to Market, east on Market to Main and disband in Main street before the courthouse.

Company M. O. N. G., the high school band, flares and hundreds of masked and costumed figures will make up the parade, which is open to the public, and all in costume are urged to join in the big procession.

In addition to the numerous prizes to be awarded in the stunts on the platform, for such as pie eating contest, apple bobbing, etc., which will be in charge of Irwin Van Winkle, the following awards will be made for best costumes appearing in the parade.

Best costumed person or couple in the parade, not comic, $10.

Three dollars for first and two dollars for second prizes will be awarded for most comic costume of boys, girls and couple up to 15 years of age.

Same prizes to be given for most comic costume for boys, girls and couple over 15 years of age.

ALBERT F. HANKINS DIES FRIDAY NIGHT

WELL KNOWN RETIRED FARMER ANSWERS CALL

Albert F. Hankins, 81, who had been quite ill at the Rest Home in this city for sometime, died Saturday morning at 2:00 o'clock.

Mr. Hankins was a prominent retired farmer, native and life-long resident of Fayette county, who came to this city to make his home some 11 years ago following the death of his wife.

For many years he resided in the Paint chapel community, where he was engaged in farming.

He was a member of the M. E. Church and constant attendant at the church until his health failed.

Mr. Hankins is survived by one son, Jesse, of northern Fayette county, and Glenn, of Columbus.

The body was removed to the Klever Funeral Home where funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at two o'clock, and interment will be made in the Washington cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home at any time to view the body.

FUNERAL PLANS FOR WM. THOMPSON

Funeral services for William F. Thompson, who died at the Rest Home in this city where he had been taken while very ill a short time ago, will be held from the Klever Funeral Home at ten o'clock Monday morning, and interment will be made in the Washington cemetery. Rev. W. H. Wilson will conduct the services. Friends may view the body at any time at the Funeral Home.

In the case of the Federal Land Bank of Louisville, against Lulu Free, in which 220.24 acres of Wayne township land was offered for sale at the courthouse Saturday afternoon, there were few bids and the Land Bank bid it off at $30 per acre. The land had been appraised at $40 per acre.

CHECKING UP ON PAIR HELD

Gasoline Thieves Wanted in Youngstown

Chief of Police Jack Wolfe is having the Youngstown authorities check up on Claude F. Powell, 40, and Harry B. Curley, 25, of that city, who were arrested about 2:45 Saturday morning while alleged to be in the act of stealing gasoline from a car owned by J. Keith, 215 East Paint street. The tube used to syphon gas from tanks, two buckets and a quantity of gasoline were taken with the pair, who were in an Essex coach bearing a Youngstown license.

In the pocket of one of the men was a letter addressed to him at some point in Alabama, apparently sent by a relative, and stating that a dozen or more police officers had been looking for him. This led Chief Wolfe to the conclusion that the pair might be wanted in their home town on more serious charges than those faced here, and he asked Youngstown police for the record of the pair and if they wanted them there. Meantime they are being held in city lock-up.

MRS. BACKENSTOE FUNERAL SERVICES

St. Colman's church was filled at nine o'clock Saturday morning, for the farewell services held for Mrs. Mary P. Backenstoe, aged resident of this city who passed away Thursday night after a week's illness with pneumonia.

The services were conducted by Rev. Father Fogarty and the choir sang requiem high mass, W. J. Smith singing the solo "Jesus Come To Me" and Miss Mary Louise Morris singing "Send Down Thy Comfort."

Interment was made in the Washington cemetery.

The pallbearers were: C. D. Tharp, Harry Nolin, Thomas Hillery, Harry Hicks, P. J. Burko and Emmet Passmore.

Buy More for Your Dollar

THERE ARE LOTS OF THINGS WE CANNOT AGREE ON AS INDIVIDUALS BUT WE CAN ALL AGREE ON THE STATEMENT THAT THE DOLLAR BUYS MORE TODAY THAN IT HAS FOR A LONG TIME.

This being true, isn't it good policy to spend our dollars as we can for things we need?

The ELECTRIC DOLLAR today as compared with 1913 buys so much more than ever before that it really is a bargain for every home.

Vote "No"

One of the proposals which will be submitted to the voters of Ohio at the election is one—"Shall there be a convention to revise, alter or amend the constitution?"

Proponents of the proposal assert, of course, that there are many provisions in the constitution of the state which have become, by reason of changed conditions, inapplicable, others that serve as too much of a barrier to progress and new provisions that should be incorporated in the constitution to bring it up to date.

In our opinion, the calling of a constitutional convention composed of a large number of delegates, with salaries and expenses to be paid, to be followed by an election on any amendments which the convention might recommend would be a useless waste of public money.

Too many of us have come to regard our constitutions as documents into which can be incorporated mere legislative proposals. There has been entirely too much meddling with our constitutions. They were framed with the purpose of preventing the enactment of a flood of radical legislation. Their provisions are general and fundamental. Requirements, powers and restrictions are brief but specific, intended to meet changed conditions if properly interpreted.

We are not in favor of amending the constitution in any particular especially at this time, when our attention is required to be directed toward more pressing needs. The cost of a convention would be great, and in our opinion, utterly needless and, more important than that, it opens the door through which new and troublesome legislation may emerge.

Hallowe'en Vandalism

Now that legislation protects the fingers, eyes and lives of children from the dangerous Fourth of July celebration of other days, how about some more homemade legislation to protect the shrubs, bird baths, screens and automobiles of citizens from the same children preceding Hallowe'en?

Time was when Hallowe'en was observed the one evening. Grotesque costumes, pumpkins, corn stalks, cider and doughnuts and false faces characterized parties given for young people most often, and some times for their elders. Occasionally a wagon was pushed to the roof of a shed, tick-tacks were put on windows, ghostly figures wrapped in sheets stalked abroad, and strings tied to cans were stretched across the sidewalks to startle pedestrians.

But now there's a change.

Soap smeared on the finish of automobiles, electric light bulbs stolen from outside lights, garden hose cut or dragged away, bird baths tipped over and broken, milk bottles taken from receptacles and broken, thrown into the street, lawns trampled, shrubs pulled up—all vandalism of the most exasperating sort in the name of a holiday.

Obviously the police can not cope with the nuisance, though here they try—not even one to every block could stop it. It is the parent's duty. They should stop it.

"Smart" Politics

A paragraph in the accounts of Roosevelt's present tour telegraphed by the press services invites an appraisal again of the curious intelligence sometimes displayed in politics. Suppose the Democratic candidate for president, when in Springfield, Illinois, had not visited Lincoln's tomb.

We think anyone in public or private life, who for the first time is in the city possessing this Lincoln shrine, visits it and pays his or her solemn respect to the memory of the president who saved the Union. Suppose Governor Roosevelt, a man publicly leading millions of his fellow citizens, had offended against the nation's decency and patriotism by not going humbly and baring his head at that hallowed spot.

Yes, politics presents its problems, queer ones. What does the political smartness gain which accuses Roosevelt of intending, through that simple act, political effect—except contempt. The intelligence at work on that really was very penetrative indeed.

DEMOCRATIC CONGRESS MAY BE UNWIELDY

Majority Likely to Be So Great as to Make Cooperation With the White House Difficult

BY CHARLES P. STEWART.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Suppose Governor Roosevelt is elected president. He will go into office next spring with the "makings" on his hands, in all probability, of as difficult a congress to co-operate with as ever a chief magistrate has faced at the beginning of his administration.

Not that it will be unfriendly to him.

On the contrary, a plethora of political friendship seems likely to be his great embarrassment.

If the governor wins at all, it is a foregone conclusion that thumping majorities will win with him, in both the senate and house of representatives. Naturally every president desires a majority of his own partisans on Capital hill, but an unwieldy majority has its drawbacks.

President Coolidge had a margin of only 40 votes in the G. O. P.'s favor in the lower congressional chamber during his last two years' tenancy of the executive mansion.

This was just a comfortable number—sufficient to accomplish anything that the Republicans desired; not enough to lead to quarreling.

With President Hoover's inauguration the excess of Republican over Democratic representatives increased to nearly 100. It would not be quite accurate to say that the Hamiltonian managers regretted this multiplication of their following. Still, it weakened rather than strengthened their alignment. Members of the dominant group no longer thought of solidarity as so essential to their common welfare. Differences of opinion and jealousies developed. Majority Leader Tilton complained bitterly of frequent defections of his leadership.

In 1930 the Democrats gained control of the house by approximately half a dozen ballots, varying one or two, from time to time, with deaths in office and subsequent replacements.

A shift from a Republican majority of 95 or 100 to a Democratic majority of five or six was a tremendous turnover, of course, but a majority of five or six is too small, just as a majority of 95 or 100 is troublesomely large. With so trifling a differential to rely on, a majority leader may be caught off guard and outvoted. Should Governor Roosevelt win, however, it is difficult to imagine that he will sweep into the lower branch of the national legislature fewer than 95 to 100 additional Democrats. That is to say, he himself can scarcely be elected except under the impetus of such a landslide as will insure the simultaneous election of something like four or five score of Jeffersonian congressional candidates over a corresponding block of Republican incumbents.

In the senate, the incoming of a Democratic majority looks like a certainty, whatever may befall Governor Roosevelt—unless the country goes Republican in unprecedented fashion.

It has been a long while since the Republicans have had a real senate majority.

They had a "paper" majority during President Hoover's first two years—53 Republicans to 52 Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite, but from the Republican 53 it was necessary for practical purposes, to deduct 10 or a dozen progressive insurgents, upon whom standpat Hamiltonians were decidedly less able to count than upon some of the Democrats.

Even this nominal advantage of the Republicans virtually was wiped out in 1930 with a slump in the number of Republican senators (insurgents and all) to 48, as against 47 Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite—with Vice President Curtis, to be sure on hand to break ties, if any.

Now comes the election of Nov. 8. The time of this election could hardly have suited Democratic purposes better if it had been made to order for their benefit.

This is the case because of the Democratic senators whose terms are expiring (senate terms expire only a third of them at a time) nearly all are from southern states, where Democrats always win, while most of the Republican senators whose terms are expiring are from doubtful states.

Of the Democrats, only one—Senator George McGill of Kansas—is considered in serious danger.

At least eight or nine Republicans are in grave peril.

Reckoning very conservatively, the readjustment is likely to bring the Democrats' total up to 53 and cut the Republicans to 42—not counting the Farmer-Laborite for either group.

A Jeffersonian victory as sweeping as some forecasters predict would change the line-up to: Democrats, 60; Republicans, 35; Farmer-Labor, one.

Poetry For Today

THE TIME.

This is a time for serious thought,
My fellow men;
This is a time with danger fraught,
My fellow men;
This is a time our country's need
Should rank above all Party creed;
This is a time for God to lead,
My fellow men.

This is a time to try men's souls,
My fellow men;
The Ship of State is on the shoals,
My fellow men;
This is no time for jest or quip,
This is the time to man the ship
With hands of steel and sturdy grip
My fellow men.

This is the time we should unite,
My fellow men;
This is the time to set things right,
My fellow men;
This is no time for clamorous blare
Of empty words upon the air;
This is the time for fast and prayer,
My fellow men.

A Jeffersonian victory as sweeping as some forecasters predict would change the line-up to: Democrats, 60; Republicans, 35; Farmer-Labor, one.

All this is assuming (for the sake of argument) a Democratic triumph as complete, for example, as the Republican triumph of four years ago—such a triumph assuredly being a possibility, or 1928 would not have been one.

It would mean this: It would mean a dozen or more brand-new Democratic senators and around 100 equally new Democratic representatives.

Now, new lawmakers in Washington are notoriously jumpy. Every time they hear a "bang!" their inclination is to dive for a dugout. They are hard to manage. Presumably a special session of congress will be called speedily if Governor Roosevelt is inaugurated president next March.

With this swarm of political rookies in attendance, it is good betting that this session will be well worth crossing the continent to come to see.

After the arrest of a Dakota farmer, caught distilling surplus cantaloupe, warnings against wood alcohol poisoning have been flashed throughout the region.

Dear Editor:

The present difficulty which may mean to Washington C. H. the loss of the Carnegie Public Library is one which should be considered by every voter before he puts in his or her ballot November 8.

So far as I am concerned, personally, I must confess to a certain amount of sentiment where the library is concerned. I have had a card there ever since I was a small child, and owe many pleasant hours to the books and magazines I have read there or have taken home to read. Even now, when I go there and see children bending intently over various books and magazines, snatching a few last minutes in order to finish a story before closing time or before obeying that admonition received at home to "come home early," it recalls many such times in my own life—blissful stolen moments, golden hours, precious memories and day-dreams, visions of the glowing future—the rightful heritage of childhood. Are we now to close these doors to other children, denying them this heritage? And how about the older folks who are daily patrons of the library and go there to read the newspapers and magazines? Shall we close the library doors on some, perhaps, who have lost their jobs, and, in a warm, pleasant reading-room, seek a brief respite from worry—on others who may have work but can not afford to spend much in the way of amusement and entertainment? Now that winter is near with long hours for reading and study, it seems to me that such a very small levy as is needed to keep the library open will be a small investment yielding large returns. And may I add that it seems to me to be poor business management to have such a building and such a collection of books, both representing quite an expenditure of time, thought, effort, and money, standing idle and unused, exposed to more or less inevitable deterioration. Will closing the library be a true economy? GREATLY INTERESTED TAXPAYER.

DELIRIUM DREAMS?

A NEW YORKER "LARGE"

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK—Personal notes of a New Yorker's cuff:

Fred Astaire and Marilyn Miller bumping into each other on Forty-fifth street. Which recalls the days when Fred and Marilyn were supposed to be engaged, a probability much frowned upon by sister Adele. But Miss Astaire is, now Lady Cavendish of Carlton Gardens, London—3,000 miles away.

High Spots In Ohio History

The west has a right to be proud of the work done by its soldiers, leaders and privates, in the war of 1812. Three noted victories, all fought in the west—one after peace had been agreed on but before the news of the fact had reached America—were instrumental chiefly in bringing the war to an end.

Put-In-Bay, the Thames and New Orleans always will stand out in the story of that second war with Great Britain—the first on Lake Erie, within sight of our Put-In-Bay Island, Sept. 10, 1813; the second on the banks of the Thames River in Ontario, with Gen. William Henry Harrison of Ohio in command of the Americans, Oct. 5, 1813, and the third at New Orleans, where Gen. Andrew Jackson, who like Harrison was to become President, was in command. It was fought, Jan. 8, 1815.

These battles and what was done by western officers and western men on the Niagara frontier, proclaim the accomplishments of the west in that war, when eastern forces were more technical about crossing state lines in the service.

"THAT LITTLE GAME" --- The "Wagon" Below

WON SUE FUN

MISS Dorothy Sparks was hostess for a delightful party, Friday evening, assembled four tables of bridge. The appointments of the much enjoyed affair were carried out in keeping with Hallowe'en. The bridge game was gaily contested and at its close attractive favors for high score were presented to Mrs. George Campbell and Mr. Leonard Korn.

Full flowers were prettily decorative throughout the home and for the serving of the delicious, two-course collation, the small tables were centered with crystal bud vases of flowers.

Enjoying the evening were Mr. Charles Warren, of Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Korn, of Jeffersonville, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Dunlap, Mr. and Mrs. George Campbell, Miss Ramona Short, Miss Helen Hutson, Miss Marjorie Sparks, Miss Charlotte Hazard, Mr. Grove Davis, Mr. Harry Ferguson and Mr. Joseph Campbell.

The pretty young hostess, who extended such cordial hospitalities, was assisted in the serving by her mother, Mrs. Henry Sparks, her sister, Miss Marjorie, and her aunt, Mrs. C. E. Lloyd.

The crowning event of all of the Grace M. E. Junior church social activities was the Hallowe'en masquerade party entertained by the teachers of the junior department, Friday evening. Seventy members and guests were assembled at Oaklawn pavilion for the gayest possible evening, carried out by Mr. William Bowers, Miss Hazel Ellison and Miss Mary Jo Taylor.

The commodious pavilion provided an ideal setting and was most attractively decorated. The pillars were banked in fodder and the doorways linked to a great center festoon of black and orange with streamers. The dim, flickering light of pumpkin lanterns lighted the pavilion and cast weird shadows into corners that suggested spooks and goblins.

The committee had cleverly arranged a "mystery house" and a fortune teller and Mr. Bowers directed a round of fascinating games.

There was a grand march of masked figures in every imaginable get-up and the judging of the best costumes was done by Rev. and Mrs. A. K. Wilson, who found the singling out of any one masquerader in seventy cleverly disguised figures a difficult task.

The committee was assisted in carrying out the evening's entertainment and in the serving of typical Hallowe'en refreshments by a number of the mothers.

The men of the Good Cheer Community Circle met with gratifying success in the fish and oyster fry sponsored Thursday evening at the Wilson school building on the Barren Steuben highway. There was a large crowd patronizing the supper and later surging through the building to enjoy the Hallowe'en carnival.

Marion Wilson capably managed the affair and was assisted by several ambitious committees. Robert Garringer, Albert Bryant and Woodrow Wilson cooked the fish and oysters, A. C. McCoy managed the dining room, and the coffee was made and served by Fred Rush. The cafeteria table was in charge of Elmo Wilson, Howard Barger, Elmer Burnett and Albert Atkinson and the kitchen work by Frank Bowers, John Merritt and H. R. Garringer. Pearl Lemons and Glenn Cavine served the cider.

Upstairs the carnival was in full swing with a fortune teller, fish pond, games and a pet show. The teachers, Edgar Jones, principal, Miss Alta Barr, Miss Vivian Everhart and Mrs. Lucy F. DeWees, arranged the carnival and carried it out successfully. The pet show was an interesting feature with animals of all descriptions and dolls on parade. Kenneth Shoemaker won the pet prize on his white collie dog and Mildred Porter a prize for the "cutest" doll.

A cake walk provided amusement with Roy Porter and Mrs. Carsa Garringer winning the angel food cake.

Music was furnished throughout the evening by Raymond Stephen, Harrison Baughn and Red Holloway.

A gratifying sum was realized for the treasury from the affair.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union met in the Federated club rooms Friday for the October meeting. Mrs. Mary Cockerill gave the opening prayer and the hymn "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross" was sung.

Mrs. J. A. Van Gundy, the president, presided, and read appropriate passages of scripture and offered prayer. This was followed by another hymn.

After a brief business session, Jean Boyer contributed a pretty piano solo "Uncle Remus" followed by an encore.

Mrs. Van Gundy gave an interesting report of the recent State Convention held at Cleveland, touching upon some of the high spots of the convention. Many prominent speakers were present and excellent music was furnished for the occasion.

Miss Alva Rodgers, chairman of the hostess committee, assisted by Mrs. T. S. Pinkerton, Mrs. Jennie Raison, Miss Mary Robinson, Miss Hattie Pinkerton, Mrs. Lydia Reno, Mrs. Arch Riber, Mrs. Nancy Roberts, Mrs. Reuben Rankin, Mrs. Frank L. Parrett, Mrs. A. S. Stemler, and Mrs. Charles Rannels, served dainty refreshments carrying out Hallowe'en suggestions and prolonged the social hour. A large bowl of white chrysanthemums formed the centerpiece of the table.

George Baker, Robert Carman and Gene Armbrust were a trio of genial hosts entertaining twenty-four guests, Friday evening, at an unusual and greatly enjoyed Hallowe'en party. Starting from the Baker home at ten o'clock there was a thrilling hayride to Greenfield and back to the Baker summer cottage in the country starting off the fun. An Armbrust dairy truck was piled high with hay and the jolliest ride imaginable took the young people to the neighboring town.

The three hosts spent a busy day Friday decorating the Baker cottage and the effect was especially clever and ingenious. There the three mothers, Mrs. Damon Baker, Mrs. Paul Carman and Mrs. W. A. Armbrust, awaited the party's arrival to serve a piping hot chilli con carne supper.

Everyone was in masquerade costume, a wide variety ranging from the ridiculous to the sublime and it was an interesting picture that might have been copied from a story-book when the young people were seated for the appetizing supper. The masques showed diligent preparation for the party, an outstanding affair in junior social circles.

Included with the hosts were Misses Alice Ferneau, Dorothy Jane Mallow, Claribel Worrell, Doris Messmore, Mary Grace Snyder, Donald Simpson, Virginia Loomis, Virginia Everhart, Dorothy Crone, Jane Ann Van Winkle, Wanda Rue Robinson and Mary Chapman, Eddie Caldwell, Billy Tooker, Bobby Link, Robert Himmler, Fred Woolard, Richard Phillips, Bob Cook, Evan Dice and Glenn Andersen.

Miss Helen Worrell and Miss Betty Brock added a gay Hallowe'en party Friday evening to the unusual number this season and assembled thirteen couples at the Worrell home. The big basement under the attractive home was thrown open to the young people who enjoyed a hilarious evening of games and dancing.

Orange and black streamers and fodder shocks added a festive note to the big rooms, which provided ideally for the dancing. A radio had been installed in the basement and every other detail carried out for the pleasure of the young guests.

The serving of a delicious and appropriate lunch interrupted the dancing for a half hour. Mrs. George H. Worrell, Mrs. L. Loring Brock and Mrs. Carl S. Mallow assisted in the serving.

Among the favored guests were Miss Jane Brock and Miss Dorothy Hildreth, of Columbus, Jimmie Hall, Robert Brubaker, John Wise and Don Stevens, of Greenfield.

Members of the Cecilian Music Club are looking forward with a great deal of interest to the next program which will be presented in the Cherry Hotel dining room Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock.

The program is one of French Folk Music with interesting sketches of folk music and special emphasis given to various provinces of France by Mrs. Fannie J. Hodson.

Illustrations are to be given by children in peasant costumes and directed by Miss Mildred Todhunter, who had the unusual advantage of being abroad and can give a personal touch by reason of her study and travel in France and her familiarity with the folk music of that country.

Miss Todhunter has, for the past several months, been coaching the children for this program which promises to be a most novel one and quite out of the ordinary.

The Sugar Creek Baptist B. Y. P. U. was entertained Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loren D. Hynes and the preparation for the presentation of play was launched. After a couple of hours of work, Mrs. Hynes served tempting refreshments.

The October meeting of the Staunton W. C. T. U. assembled members in the church parlors. Mrs. Alice Roberts, president, conducted the business session and introduced Mrs. J. A. Van Gundy, the speaker of the afternoon.

Mrs. Van Gundy made a talk on the important issues facing the people at this critical time in world affairs and also gave a splendid report from the State W. C. T. U. convention held in Cleveland recently.

Miss Helen Hurtt entertained a number of her friends with a masquerade and bridge party at her home on Leesburg Avenue, Friday evening.

Immediately following the arrival of the masked guests, fortunes were told in various ways. The balance of the evening was spent in a merry round of bridge, prizes won by Miss Susie Tracey and Miss Marie Bodholdt.

At the close of the bridge, the guests were invited to the dining room where they found a beautifully decorated table, the proverbial colors of orange and black carried out. The centerpiece of the table was a pumpkin shell filled with autumn fruits and guarded by orange tapers, sprigs of bittersweet and bright colored leaves helped to complete the dining room decorations.

A tempting salad course was served to the following guests: Misses Eleanor, Edith, and Virginia Wilson, Helen and Donna Turner, Susie Tracey, Ruth Andersen, Eleanor Horne, Marie Bodholdt, Evadine Smith and Laura Hurtt.

Miss Hurtt was assisted by her mother and sister, Mabel.

Mrs. J. F. Wickerham and Miss Laura McDermott, of Peebles, were guests for a few days this week of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Rodgers.

Mr. William M. Campbell left Saturday for Washington, D. C., to attend the thirty-ninth annual Field Trials, Hound and Horse show, sponsored by the National Fox Hunters' Association. He will be joined in Washington by his daughter, Mrs. John F. Otis, of New York.

Mrs. Homer Ruley and daughter, Rebecca Jane, Betty Ann Smith, Mrs. Ralph Taylor and Mrs. William A. Boylan were Friday visitors in Columbus.

Mrs. George S. Mytinger, of Chillicothe, is spending the week end with her mother, Mrs. William B. Hershey, Dr. Mytinger motoring up for her, Sunday.

Mrs. Mark Mehl and Mrs. Ray Lindamood, of Columbus, were Friday visitors in this city.

Mr. William L. Stinson was a business visitor in Columbus, Saturday. Mrs. Stinson motoring up with him.

Mrs. Howard K. Parrett and guest, Mrs. Margaret Hopkins, were motoring visitors in Columbus, Friday.

Mrs. Robert A. Craig and her cousin, Mr. Myron Bowen, of Winona, Minn., attended the State-Wisconsin football game in Columbus, Saturday. Mr. Bowen is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin.

Mr. Peter Lisclandro received a radiogram Saturday morning from Mrs. Lisclandro and daughter, Miss Anna, who sailed for home Saturday morning from Naples, Italy. Mrs. Lisclandro's health, which summoned her daughter abroad, is much improved. They expect to arrive about November eighth.

Mrs. Forest Bottenfield and daughter, Martha, are spending the week end in Columbus, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Ropp.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale J. Glaze stopped here for a short time Friday evening, en route from a visit in Cincinnati to their home in Columbus.

Mrs. C. E. Lloyd and Mrs. Henry Sparks motored to Athens, Saturday, for a few days' visit with Miss Florence Mabel Sparks and Miss Helen Fretts.

Mrs. Earl Parker, daughter, Phyllis, Mrs. Earl Gidding, son, Gordon, and Miss Florence Ustick were motorists in Columbus, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Fouché will entertain Mr. and Mrs. F. X. Rauch, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Logan and daughter, Phyllis, of Athens, over the week end. Mrs. Logan is a daughter.

Miss Maxine Clark came from Columbus for a week end visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sherrell Clark, and brother, Richard.

JURY DISAGREES IN DAMAGE CASE

After being out from 2:20 until 6:10 p. m. Friday, the jury in the $10,000 damage action of Fannie Nier against The Kroger Grocery and Baking Company, reported hopeless disagreement and was discharged from further consideration of the case.

The case had occupied the Court for two days, during which some 30 witnesses were examined.

Mrs. Nier sought damages for injuries received when she fell as she was leaving defendant's store, corner Main and Elm streets, in 1930.

LIVING AND LOVING

By VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I read your column and would like to give a few encouraging words to 'Patiently Waiting.'"

"I have had dates with 73 different girls since I started to go with girls. I have found only three of these so-called 'gold diggers.'"

"I always watch a girl for a couple of weeks before I ask her for a date. I watch her friends and see if she goes with fellows in my own class. I think you will see that this usually works."

"Another thing, don't go too much on looks."

"LUCKY NINETEEN."

The number of gold diggers, then to the total number of girls, is a very small percentage, according to your experience. Oh, wise young Solomon. I'm glad to hear it, although I was sure the girls were not as black—or as gold, as they were painted.

Boy, you certainly have had experience for one so young, haven't you? Imagine dating 73 girls! Did you start dating in your cradle?

You certainly are the cautious soul, to watch a girl for two weeks before you ask her for a date. Wouldn't it be ironical if you fell in love at first sight and married in a hurry some time? That might be termed poetical justice.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR ISAAC ROUSH
All that was mortal of Isaac Roush, one of the oldest residents of Palat township, was laid to rest in the Sedalia cemetery, Friday afternoon, following funeral services held at his late home, which were conducted by Rev. Joseph Britts, of Jeffersonville, and largely attended by relatives and friends.
Mr. Roush had passed away after nearly three years of invalidism during which time he was confined to the house and most of the time to his bed.

In addition to his sermon and prayer, Rev. Britts read the two hymns "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and "Abide With Me".
There were many beautiful flowers of the relatives and friends.
The pallbearers were the three sons, Alfred, Wilbur and Elliott Roush, and three son-in-law, Howard Oswald, Ross Johnston and Florence Klontz.

RALLY DRAWS LARGE NUMBER FRIDAY NIGHT

Eloquent Colored Resident of Chicago on the Platform

Memorial Hall was practically filled, Friday night, for a district rally of colored voters, who were addressed by one of the best colored orators on the stump for the Republican cause at the present time—Hon. Harris B. Gaines, member of the Illinois Legislature since 1929, from Chicago, Illinois, who spoke for more than an hour and was frequently interrupted by the enthusiastic audience from this and surrounding counties. About one fifth of the audience was white voters.

Preceding the rally, the Jeffersonville Harmony Four with pianist entertained the audience, and Joseph Crosswhite was in the chair for the opening and closing of the meeting, introducing Charles Schwartz, who spoke for a short time in behalf of his own candidacy for Representative from Fayette county, and who, then introduced each republican candidate in the county with a short, concise statement regarding each.

He then introduced Gaines who spoke of the basic principles of the Republican party and declared that the colored voter owed allegiance to the Republican Party. He discussed some of the national issues and urged every negro voter to vote a straight ticket this year above all years.

He took time out to praise Ingalls for Governor and Schwartz for Representative.

Gaines mixed a great deal of humor with his address, and was rated one of the most able colored speakers that has ever addressed a public meeting in the city.

ABANDON WEAK SCHOOLS OF OHIO, IS SUGGESTION NOW

"It concerns," he said, "the financial crisis of the schools of Ohio are experiencing and the reduced educational offerings of the schools."

S. G. Collicott, superintendent of Columbus schools, was elected president of the association, succeeding Glenn Drummond of Bellefontaine. Dr. Bert Highlands of Mechanicsburg, was named vice president.

Harry P. Swain, of Columbus, was elected a member of the executive committee of The Ohio Educational Association, while W. G. to a similar committee of the teachers' association.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 29.—(AP)—A "magnificent opportunity and a deep obligation confront the new education—that of using schools to rebuilding society," more than 3,000 teachers of southwestern Ohio were told last night by Dr. Harold Rugg, professor of education at Columbia university.

Dr. Rugg said "the new education practices youth in creative self-expression."

Mary G. Waite, of the University of Cincinnati, yesterday was elected president of The Southwestern Ohio Teachers' Association. Joseph W. Fletcher, of Hamilton, was named vice president, and Ernest J. Ashbaugh, of Oxford, treasurer.

The convention will end today.

FOREIGN LOAN BLAME DENIED BY HOOVER IN INDIANAPOLIS SPEECH

plete control of all branches of the government—executive, Senate and House, and I may add for good measure, the Supreme court as well," the President characterized it as "an atrocious charge."

The President also spoke directly of what he called Roosevelt's attempt "to establish the idea in the minds of the American people that I am responsible for bad loans by American bankers and investors in foreign countries."

"The Governor does not inform the American people that most of those bonds are issued from New York state, and that the Governor has done nothing to reform the evil," the President said.

The President said he believed foreign loans properly secured for reproductive purposes were advantageous to the American people, but that Roosevelt "considers that all foreign loans are wrong."

Mr. Hoover then asserted that in 1928 Governor Roosevelt "was engaged in that business for profit and actively occupied in promoting such loans," as chairman of the organization committee of the Federal International Banking Company.

"I have no reason to believe, and I do not believe," the President said, "That the Governor's enterprise on this occasion was not perfectly proper and soundly founded. I do not wish to convey that impression."

"But the Governor as a private promoter for profit during the boom of 1928 believed and practiced what the Governor, as presidential candidate, now denounces as immoral and a cause for our calamities."

Turning to his charge in Cleveland two weeks ago that the Democratic National committee had circulated "calumnies" in connection with the employment of cheap Chinese labor years ago, the President said:

That committee privately acknowledges that these have not a shred of foundation. They refuse to take the manly course and withdraw these statements. They have sought to maintain their continuing poison by silence."

The President then asserted the committee had issued other "calumnies" and that Roosevelt had endorsed them.

In still another direct reply to Roosevelt, Mr. Hoover referred to the Democratic candidate's statement that the President had done "absolutely nothing to remedy the (economic) situation" until December, 1931.

"It seems almost incredible that a man, a candidate for the presidency of the United States, would broadcast such a violation of the truth," the Chief Executive said, citing instances in which he contended he had acted to remedy conditions.

The remainder of the President's speech was a discussion of what he called "some of the continuing policies of the administration in contrast with the policies of our opponents."

Most of it dealt with the tariff, in which he continued Roosevelt had recently made "the most startling shift in position by a presidential candidate in the midst of a political campaign in all recent political history."

Roosevelt's announcement that he does not propose to reduce tariffs on farm products, Mr. Hoover said, was a shift of positions in which the President asserted he had "thrown overboard the greatest historical position of his party" and "rewritten the Democratic platform."

"I myself am taking heart over this debate," the President said. "If it could be continued long enough, I can drive him from every solitary position he has taken in this campaign. They are all equally untenable."

The President then compared positions of immigration, railroad legislation, power, banking reform, government expenses, federal reorganization, currency, expansion and the house.

He said "the fact that the Democratic candidate has not yet disavowed" the House bill for currency expansion made this "one of the most important issues of his campaign."

Reiterating his opposition to payment of the bonus, Mr. Hoover said "the Democratic candidate has not yet stated to the American people fairly and squarely what his attitude is upon this subject."

"Of one thing I will assure the veterans," the President added, "and that is when they are paid they will be paid in real money."

MARKETS and FINANCIAL NEWS

DAY'S ACTIVITIES IN WALL STREET

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The stock market was unable to maintain its upward slant today in the face of a moderate decrease in the movement of revenue freight, as reported for last week.

The list stiffened in the early trading, showing signs of continuation of yesterday's slow advance, but the appearance of the freight car loadings statement, showing that the week ended Oct. 22 registered a decline of 8,405 cars from the previous week, prompted floor traders to switch to the bear side.

The market was unable to break out of the narrow trading range of the past week, but closed with several losses of 1 to 2 points, which about cancelled yesterday's gain. The final tone was heavy, but the market remained almost entirely professional, as the speculating and investing public continued to leave the market severely alone.

The turnover for the two-hour session was around 400,000 shares.

Wall Street had been undecided as to what to expect from the car loadings report. It had been evident from the reports of individual carriers which appeared during the week, that the smart upturn of the previous week would not be duplicated. As a matter of fact, the manner in which car loadings continued to increase up to the middle of the month, carried the usual seasonal movement past its usual peak, so a seasonal let-down at this time was to have been expected. Ordinarily, the freight movement holds up around the season's highest levels through August, then tapers off in rather decisive fashion in November.

Among a few shares losing as much as 2 points were Union Pacific, Santa Fe and Lackawanna, while losses of a point or so appeared in New York Central, Southern Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, and others. Elsewhere in the list, losses of a point or so appeared in such issues as U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, American Tobacco "B," National Biscuit, United Aircraft, Western Union, Westinghouse Electric. In the industrials and utilities, however, most net changes were limited to fractions.

Week-end trade surveys showed recent gains were being maintained. Steel production was placed at between 19 and 20 per cent of capacity for the industry at large. The most encouraging aspects of the situation, it was widely felt, appeared in fundamental financial conditions. Bank closings declined from September to October for the first time in the past few years.

Earnings statements indicated that industrial earnings generally reached a new low in the third quarter. The railroad September reports have provided the most encouragement. October, on the basis of carloadings, should be even better, but with the trend usually downward in November and December, and many carriers still failing to earn their fixed charges, bankers pointed out that the carrier problem was far from solved.

Foreign exchanges were marked by further signs of restored stability of sterling. Cables ruled at $3.38 1/2, up 1/2 cent. The French franc was a shade lower.

In commodities, silver futures, which had a sudden bounce yesterday, lost much of their gains today. Cotton turned moderately reactionary, losing 65 to 75 cents a bale. Labor troubles again loomed in the Lancashire spinning industry, threatening to disrupt foreign business in that staple.

NEWS BRIEFS FROM WALL STREET

New York, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Pennsylvania Railroad's net operating income in September reached the highest point so far this year at $4,519,365. Including subcharges net operating income amounted to $5,165,955, compared with $2,627,698 in August, and $5,706,983 in September, 1931. Gross revenues of $26,325,562 marked the largest for any month since May.

Construction contracts awarded the 37 eastern states during the period from October 1 through October 15, totaled $54,339,300, the F. W. Dodge corporation reports. This compares with a total of $58,901,000 in the first half of September, and $111,735,600 for the first half of October, 1931.

HAD STOLEN TAGS SABINA MAN HELD

Albert Miley of Sabina, was taken into custody by the police Friday afternoon upon complaint of Charles Williamson who operates a junk yard in Columbus Avenue, that the truck being used by Miley to haul junk to his place bore license plates that had been stolen from Williamson's truck last June.

Miley declared that the license plates had been found along the road near Jasper, and that he had taken them and placed them on the truck owned by himself and father.

Miley was still held Saturday forenoon while the investigation into the affair was continued.

The Week's Attraction At Washington's Theatres

PALACE

Come to see "Back Street"—share the tears and fears, the love and laughter, the beauty and glory of Ray—a woman who dared to snatch at the happiness denied her!

Fannie Hurst told this story, and Universal has made a picture of it—a picture for the millions! The drama is every bit as vivid, as honest, as fearless as the book by the famous authoress!

First place in a man's heart... what is it worth to a woman? Is it worth the secrecy, the concealment, the sacrifice... of "Back Street"? Society's sneers... the world's pointing finger... the terrible loneliness of a lifetime... is any man worth it?

A little quirk of Fate made Ray the girl she was. A madness swept over her, and everything she could have had—everything a woman wants—she surrendered for Walter. She gave up home, security, children, happiness... But before you condemn her, see this screen achievement—see Irene Dunne as Ray, John Boles as Walter—giving their finest film performances under the masterful direction of John M. Stahl, the man who made "Speed"!

Miss Dunne is the star of "Cimarron" and Boles of "Seed" and other successes.

This picture has been long awaited by Washington theater-goers and promises to play to packed houses at every showing—Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Palace.

No screen drama shown during the present season, it is said, has proved more absorbingly interesting than "A House Divided," the powerful, Universal drama which opens its run at the Palace Theater Wednesday and Thursday.

Walter Huston, Helen Chandler and Kent Douglas play the featured roles in this story of a rugged life and love on the North Pacific coast, which presents the intriguing situation of a young man falling in love with the new "mail-order bride" of his father. The events which follow the father's discovery of this state of affairs are said to be filled with excitement and dramatic intensity.

"Riders of the Desert," featuring that dynamic young Western star, Bob Steele, is Friday's and Saturday's attraction at the Palace Theater.

In this stirring outdoor film is depicted a picturesque and punchy drama of the last ride of the Arizona Rangers, with Bob Steele presented as a veritable chip-off-the-old-block son of a sun-browned Ranger.

Bob Steele is in the thick of the fray at all times and he is capably supported by an excellent cast. Gertrude Messinger makes a petite and pretty subject for Steele's romantic moments.

FAYETTE

Interest next week centers in "Congorilla," the offering for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the only talking picture entirely made in the African jungle with Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson and brings to the audible screen for the first time the roars, shrieks and cries not only of primitive savages and wild animals, but the unexplored wilderness of Central Africa in all its hectic splendor. Rivers alive with rhinos and crocodiles, wilderness vibrant with man-eaters, forest shrieking with savage hysterical with shouts of gorillas are realistically brought to you in "Congorilla," thanks to science and the daring of the world's most fearless explorers.

Romance and drama on an ocean liner is pictured by William Powell and Kay Francis in "One Way Passage," the attraction for Wednesday and Thursday.

Strangers to each other until they meet at the opening of the story, John Ames and Dan Hardesty fall in love the moment their eyes meet. Instantly they resolve that the month of love and companionship they can have while their steamer is crossing the Pacific will worth all the rest of life. And they know that is the price each must pay, for death, in a different guise, waits for both on the American shore.

"Hide Him, Cowboy," at the Fayette, Friday and Saturday, stars John Wayne, the screen's stars star of the saddle, and "Duke" his devil horse. The story is an action packed, thundering melodrama of the wild and woolly West.

DEALER O. K.'S RUMOR OF A PLYMOUTH SIX

Persistent rumors that a new Plymouth car shortly to be announced would be a six cylinder automobile of lower price than that of current Plymouth models, was confirmed here today by Charles Sever of the Washington Motor Sales.

Although no definite announcement date was named the dealer, Mr. Sever stated that the new cars would make their appearance here within a few weeks.

"The new Plymouth Six," said Mr. Sever, "is the product of a new era of automobile manufacture. The recent economic stress has stimulated the progress of automotive design far ahead of the amount of advance usually achieved in any three year period. Machine tool manufacturers have volunteered more new designs recently than usual. Machine tool design has kept pace with the demand for finer but more economical manufacturing methods. Intricate machines that operate to almost unbelievable dimensions are now available. Amplifying gauges that literally split hairs not once but many times, are a part of the general production scheme.

At the request of factory officials, the local dealer is not yet announcing the specific features of the new Plymouth. However, he stated the new Plymouth Six is a full-size, full-tread car and it retains the features which distinguished its predecessor—namely, Floating Power, automatic clutch, Free Wheeling, easy-shift silent second transmission, all-steel body, rigid-X frame and a six-cylinder engine of Chrysler Motors' exclusive design and build.

"The new Plymouth Six," said Mr. Sever, "is, moreover, a beautiful car, skillfully designed to combine the most popular beauty and style elements found ordinarily only in cars of a much higher price range.

"We have not been informed as yet of the price of this new motor car," he said, "but we know that it will bear the lowest price ever placed on a Chrysler Motors' product."

GREEN PEPPERS PAY TAXES FOR CAROLINA TOWN

Turkey, N. C.—(AP)—Green peppers have solved the financial problem for Turkey, perhaps the only North Carolina town that levies no property tax.

Until two years ago the tax rate in Turkey, reputed to be the largest green pepper market in the world, was six cents on the $100 valuation, but for the last two years, the town's operating revenue has come from the privilege tax and the tax derived from the auction pepper market.

A year ago the town's funds were tied up in a closed bank, but today the treasury has a surplus of $150 the main street of the town of 300 population is paved and Mayor W. H. Carroll says that for six years he has tried only an average of two cases annually in his court.

NATION'S POLITICS VIEWED AT RANDOM

1928 campaign, assembled congress chiefly for adjustment of agricultural scheduled, Cox said, "the Grundys who had financed the Hoover campaign demanded payment in the form of the Hawley-Smoot bill."

Hoover signed it despite an "avalanche of protests from our manufacturers," Cox said, "for the purpose of maintaining solidarity within his own party. In other words, he yielded to the selfish group which had made its investment in the Hoover campaign and demanded its pound of flesh."

A series of questions were pronounced in Senator Bulkley's address, with the hope that Vice President Charles Curtis would answer them when he speaks here tonight. Bulkley said "we all will be interested to have his answer to the president's argument in his speech of acceptance that there must be a change in the eighteenth amendment."

"Specifically, we want to know whether a Republican victory would bring any change in the amendment and what that change would be."

The senator also suggested that Curtis "tell us whether the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act was anything more than a revival of the War Finance Corporation act which was established and proved successful under the Democratic administration of President Wilson."

Bevis accused David S. Ingalls,

Republican candidate for governor, of attempting "falsely to undermine the financial credit of his native state, by spreading unfounded reports about its receipts and disbursements at a time when business sorely needs every proper assurance of the state's financial stability."

Vice President Charles Curtis headed the battery of Republican campaign speakers in Ohio last night with an address at Canton, praising high tariffs.

David S. Ingalls, candidate for governor, spoke at Cincinnati; Attorney General Gilbert Bettman, senatorial nominee, spoke from the same platform as Curtis; while State Senator George H. Bender, candidate for congressman-at-large, addressed a rally at Bowling Green.

The importance of protection given by Republican tariff, Curtis said, "far outweighs" the objectionable features. He also read a letter from an official of the American Farm Bureau Federation, which expressed appreciation "of your effort in defense of the agricultural industry, in framing a tariff law that more nearly places agriculture on a plane with other industries than ever has been done before."

Ingalls advocated a program of aid to taxpayers, by making the passage of bond issues more difficult, and permitting installment payment of current and delinquent taxes.

The candidate said "Governor White's record as a member of congress makes him as opposed to woman suffrage and certainly contained nothing to inspire the confidence of the farmers and the working man. His congressional record on the subject of child welfare is on a par with his indifference to education during his administration as governor of Ohio."

Bettman said the Democratic plan for revision of the tariff would cause "the greatest ruin that can happen to labor and business in the next four years." He further claimed that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, had been inconsistent in his attitude toward the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

In a series of speeches from a truck equipped with loudspeakers, Bender asserted the Democrats first blamed President Hoover and the Republican party for the depression, and then "finding things getting better," claimed it was the result of popular expectation that Roosevelt will be elected. Bender characterized this as "mental agility," but asked "how about its honesty?"

"FEAR NOT" IS THE APPEAL OF THE

the Governor departed from his text and said:

"Tonight I am told he has called him ignorant, and charged that he misrepresented the facts, and I want to say that as an American citizen and as a Democrat, I resent this."

Marked applause greeted the Governor's discussion of the farm problem, particularly when he said that "the farmer is more in need of relief today than he was when Mr. Hoover started to relieve him."

The Governor denounced the Republican plank dealing with prohibition as being one that offers "no hope at all," and called the Democratic plank on the question one which "gives positive assurance."

He said that the Democratic plank, "in a clean-cut, forthright way advocates the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, with no 'ifs,' no 'buts' and no reservations or conditions about it."

Speaking of economic conditions,

HAS THERE BEEN A KILLING FROST?

WEATHER MAN IS INCLINED TO THINK NOT

The unusual weather so far this fall has got even the weather man puzzled, and Saturday he was still endeavoring to figure out if there had been a "killing frost" this season.

He was inclined to the belief that there had not, although there have been a series of light frosts and frosts, and a time or two when the mercury went down to the freezing point or below.

For instance the low point touched by the mercury Friday morning was 31 degrees—but, so far as known, there was no killing frost.

It seems that when the temperature has been most favorable for a very heavy "killing frost," that the other condition have not been favorable, such as a breeze blowing and preventing the frost.

Anyway there is a great deal of vegetation that has not been killed that never fails to fall before a heavy frost, and therefore Weather Observer Chester P. Dunn is inclined to the belief that so far there has not been a frost that could be classified as a killing one.

Bucyrus, O., (AP)—Wounds received when his shotgun discharged accidentally caused the death of Henry J. Reiff, 57. He was prominent in the Eagles Lodge here.

Charles E. Haigler has had experience in engineering, construction, farming, teaching and accounting.

He has the fairness and courage to decide all questions in the public interest.

CHARLES J. SCHWART
Republican Candidate for Representative
PLATFORMIf elected I shall do all I can to bring about the following changes:
REDUCE GOVERNMENT EXPENSE
Apply common sense business methods and efficiency to all functions of government. Reorganize departments and commissions, eliminating duplication, overlapping and extravagance.
EQUALIZE THE TAX BURDEN
Simplify tax system. Tax more on basis of income, less on property. Thus making those who have the ability to pay more relieve the farmer, home owner, and individual business man of his inequitable burden.
IMPROVE STATE BANKING SYSTEM
Inure greater safety and protection for depositors money.
Favor insurance of bank deposits if a practical system can be devised.
I believe "a public office is a public trust," and its duties are to be performed fairly and honestly in the interests of all the people, and not in the interests of any group or lobby.
CHARLES J. SCHWART.
